PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

trust that you celebrated the New Year properly.

2006 holds the promise of an exciting year for the Clayton

Library, a premier genealogy facility. It is one of the three best public Genealogy Collections in the United States. We at CLF are proud of our work in supporting Clayton.

The feasibility phase of the Clayton House and complex renovation was completed last year and fund raising has started. Now, real renovation of the Clayton House complex will get underway with the GMSA Architect Design Phase completion early this year. These will be the specifications and drawings that will be used in the bidding process and selection of the contractor. We have hired a professional to act as our project manager to guide our way through the detailed coordination with the architect and City of Houston. How soon we are able to bring this Historic Complex to completion will depend on the work to be done, its related cost, and how soon we can get started.

Our Capital Campaign Fund Raising started mid-year 2005. To date we have raised or committed about $2.7 million toward the restoration, about one quarter of the way to our goal. Fund raising will continue aggressively to reach $10 million. Out of that fund, CLF will establish a $2.5 million maintenance endowment so that we are able to maintain the property in pristine condition as a genealogical research facility.

The CLF is expanding the Acquisitions project to include the collection of:

Additional Texas State Archives and Texas General Land Office;

Additional Texas County Records such as deeds, probate records, marriages, etc. for Harris and surrounding counties and for those counties east of the Trinity River, by purchasing the RHRD collection from the Genealogical Society of Utah or the Texas State Library and Archives:

Seek to obtain directly from the individual counties any records that are not part of the RHRD collection;

Texas Death Certificates (1935-1978);

Texas Birth Certificates (1928-1935);

Texas Marriage Records, 1966-;

Additional colonial Gulf Coast and Mississippi Valley records from foreign archives;

American Indian Records:

African-American Records:

Passenger & Crew Lists of Vessels Arriving at New York, 1897-1957 (NARA Publication T717, reels 1-4892):

Remaining 1930 Soundex microfilm;

Also on our 'wish list' are the Government Land Office Records, 1930 Census Soundex Records, New York Passenger Lists, completion of the Cuban Papers, Texas Ranger Records, Military Records, and more. Our radar is on scan for those Texas records we don't yet know about that will need preservation. Last year we found a number of significant documents and preserved them. CLF intends to continue looking. We always welcome donations of funds ear-marked for any of these collections or other items for the library.

High on our list of achievements is our joint participation with the Houston Genealogical Forum in the development of educational seminars to help the genealogy community in their research and in solving brick wall problems. These seminars were successful in 2005 with attendance averaging 65 participants. More significant was the genealogical education provided to experienced as well as beginner genealogists.

Bringing the official Website online is a major project that resisted completion in 2005. We are renewing our goal of an upgraded presence on the Internet that will provide the surfer with information about the "Friends", the Clayton Library and the rewards of being a member and volunteer.

We have not been very efficient with the postal and electronic delivery of the CLF Newsletter. A new director is leading the charge to improve our commitment to the membership. We will continue to refine electronic delivery of the CLF Newsletter to quickly bring information to CLF members.

If you would like to participate in these exciting projects as a volunteer, contact Sam Lusk at navret@hal-pc.org or any CLF Director.

CLAYTON LIBRARY FRIENDS VOLUNTEERS FOR 2005

ne of the main and important ongoing functions of CLF is providing support to Clayton Library by the scheduling of our volunteers to assist the library staff during working hours. This CLF volunteer program successfully completed over 5,500 hours of scheduled work time in 2005. We are proud to present the following 2005 Clayton Library Volunteers responsible for this selfless contribution:

In addition to this list, we must mention the Clayton staff members, specifically David Hardin and Irene Walters. These two librarians coordinate and schedule our precious time to Clayton's calendar. Sandy Scott, our CLF Volunteer Coordinator for 2005, worked devotedly to maintain the high standards that CLF expects from their volunteer program.

Thank you all for the exceptional efforts and energy you shared with Clayton this year. We are the better because of it.

A Silent Hero

The Clayton Library Friends Volunteers do an outstanding service for the Clayton Library, volunteering over 8,000 hours last year, equivalent to four full-time librarians. So many do so much that it is almost impossible to identify any one contribution.

There is an exception...

The Board of Directors is deeply, deeply indebted to Charles David Lodge for his voluntary service in maintaining Clayton Library Friends membership records, tracking directed contributions, developing member mailing lists and various other membership reports. He provides tireless and accurate data entry of the membership database.

The data David keeps directly supports the Board of Directors in the development budgets, membership status, membership campaigns, individual member renewal reports, library resource acquisitions, mailing lists for both the posted and electronic newsletters, and more.

David's contributions are generally not visible to the membership. But the Officers and Directors need and use the information he provides. His weekly reports are essential to support the assigned tasks of officers and directors. It requires his constant attention.

Charles David Lodge is our Silent Hero.

NEW CLF BOARD MEMBERS

Laredo, Texas and moved to Houston in 1965. She worked as a secretary in the Artificial Heart Program and in various other positions until starting a family in 1971. From 1975-1978, she conceived, produced, and directed a statewide media research project, funded by the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health at The University of Texas at Austin. The project included radio, TV, and print materials on depression and anger. It was aired statewide and in Mexico and Canada. American Red Cross. She has served on the Board of the Mental Health Association of Houston & Harris County and for a brief period on the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Authority of Harris County board.

In 1999 she wrote "Who Was Marcus Sewell? OUTSTANDING SERVICE... CLF RECOGNIZES DON PUSCH FOR HIS LEADERSHIP

In recognition of his long service to Clayton Library Friends, Don Pusch was presented with a plaque by the CLF board on January 17, 2006, at its January meeting.

Don has been active with the Clayton Library Friends for 15 years. In 1992 he took on the job as editor of The CLF Newsletter and continued in that position for the next ten years, helping it to grow into the professional publication that it is today. Under Don's leadership the newsletter won first place in the 1997 NGS Newsletter Competition in the category of Major Genealogical Societies. The presentation was made at the national convention in Denver, and Don was able to be at the convention with several CLF board members to receive the award. Part of Don's success with the newsletter was his attention to high editorial standards and his constant urging of members to submit a variety of articles highlighting the Clayton Library collection or providing information on how to get the most out of it.

As the Computer Learning Center coordinator at the CLF-hosted NGS Conference in 1994, Don was an essential cog in making the conference a success. He was the original designer of the CLF web site in 1995 and served as curator of the site up until 2006. He also served two years as a CLF director and was volunteers chairman in 1992 and 1993.

In 2000 Don was elected President of CLF and was reelected in 2001 for a second term. During that time period, large contributions and grants continued to flow into the CLF treasury, and he enlisted the help of interested members to develop a more capable record-keeping system. In 2002 he was elected Treasurer, a position he retained for four years, a tenure that was longer than any previous CLF treasurer.

Don's interest and expertise in colonial French history and the French sailing navy of the eighteenth century have found their outlets in his many speaking, writing, and editing activities. Some of his more notable works include the following:

- Selected Papers by Winston De Ville. Ville Platte, Louisiana: Provincial Press, 2000 (editor)
- Mississippi Valley Mélange, vol. 4. Ville Platte, Louisiana: Provincial Press, 2000 (coeditor with Winston de Ville)
- "Employees of the Marine in the Colony of Louisiana, 1759." Louisiana Genealogical Register 47: 69-87 (September 2000)
- "The Capture of the Chariot Royal," Le Réveil Acadien 18: 79-84 (November 2002). This article received the 2002 Editor's Award from the Acadian Cultural Society.
- The Naval Service Dossier of Jean-François Le Large .Seabrook, Texas: Petite Presse du Lac, 2003.
- In work: Convoy to Louisiana: The Logs of the flûte Fortune and the frigate Opale, 1758–1759 (a complete English translation of these two log books).
- In work: Kerlérec's Cipher: The Encoded Dispatches of the Last French Governor of the Province of Louisiana (an analysis of the encryption techniques used in the governor's correspondence).

Although Don has officially retired from the CLF executive board, we expect to continue seeing him around the library and involved in CLF projects where he can lend his expertise.

IS THERE A DOCUMENT IN THE HOUSE?

Government Documents in Genealogical Research

By Gay E. Carter

here would you go if you wanted to use government? An archive? Perhaps a university or large public library? These would be correct choices, but you might be surprised to learn that government documents can be available in almost any library. Not too long ago, Loretto Szucs wrote an introductory article and topics. What kinds of publications are useful for genealogical research?

When you are ready to take a trip, you turn to travel guides for help and suggestions. Guides to resources give the same kind of aid for "touring" a collection of research materials. Examples of this type of publication are Guide to Genealogical Research in the National Archives (3rd ed., 2000;

016.9291 L697 USA), Guide to Research Collections of Former United States Senators, 1789-1982 (016.328 G946 USA),

Of Callard's 195 suggested titles, Clayton has or has access to 80 of them, a good 41 per cent. And this isn't even counting such things as all of the National Archives microfilm collections about using government documents for genealogy entitled "Government Documents: No Genealogy Here?" The question just as easily could be turned around when thinking about a genealogy library such as Clayton: "No government documents here?"

Taking a bibliography prepared by Carole Callard of the Library of Michigan² as a starting point, I searched the Houston Public Library catalog, limiting the results to Clayton Library, to test this theory. Of Callard's 195 suggested titles, Clayton has or has access to 80 of them, a good 41 per cent. And this isn't even counting such things as all of the National Archives microfilm collections.

Government publications cover any imaginable subject, so you'll find a variety of resources

The Confederacy: A Guide to Federal Archives Relating to the Civil War (016.9737 B415 USA) and its counterpart The Union: A Guide to Federal Archives Relating to the Civil War (973.7 M965 USA). Taking the time to read about a collection before going to use it can save researchers much valuable time while on site.

Actually, many of the travel guides produced by the National Park Service can be useful to genealogists, too. Those relating to historical sites often give brief but substantive information about the history or culture of the site and its time period. If your interest is in the Civil War, you might take a look at Manassas National Battlefield Park, Virginia (975.5 W746 VA; also available online at http://www.nps.gov/mana/) or Fort Sumter:

National Monument, South Carolina (975.7 B261 SC; also available online http://www.nps.gov/fosu/). the American Revolution more your cup of tea? Try Fort Stanwix, Rome, New York (http://www.nps. gov/fost/) or Yorktown Battlefield, Virginia (http://www.nps.gov/ vonb/index.htm). How about tracking down those migrating ancestors? Take a look at the Mormon Pioneer National Historic Trail (http://www. nps.gov/mopi/) or the Trail of Tears National Historic Trail (http://www.nps.gov/trte/). Whether or not you plan to visit the parks, you will learn signifieant background detail that will help you understand the lives and experiences of your ancestors.

It's a good research habit to check for bibliographies on your research topic, whether they are published separately or as part of a book or journal article. As might be expected, the Library of Congress publishes many genealogically helpful bibliographies. Generations Past: A Selected List of Sources for Afro-American Genealogical Research (016.929 L425 USA), Hidden Research Resources in the German Collections of the Library of Congress: A Select Bibliography of Reference Works (016.943 K92 USA), Revolutionary America, 1763–1789: A Bibliography (973.3 G353 USA), and Railroad Maps of the United States: A Selective Annotated Bibliography of the Original 19th-Century Maps in the Geography and Map Division of the Library of Congress (016.912 L697 USA) are just a few. Check out many other titles on the Library of Congress Genealogy Reading Room web site (http://www.loc.gov/rr/genealogy/bib_guide/bibguide. html).

Biographical directories and personnel lists are always potentially useful for family historians. Somebody's ancestors will be found in the Biographical Directory of the American Congress, 1774–1989 (923.2873 W872 USA; also available online as Biographical Directory of the United States Congress at http://bioguide.congress.gov/biosearch/biosearch.asp, Women in Congress, 1917-1990 (923.2873 W872 USA), the State Department's Diplomatic List (http://www.st ate.gov/s/cpr/ rls/dpl/), or Key Officers of Foreign Service Posts (http://foia.state.gov/MMS/KOH/keyoffeity.asp).

Official publications such as War of the Rebellion: A Compilation of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies (973.74 U58 USA) are well-known resources. Look also for the Papers of the Continental Congress, 1774–1789 (973.312 U58 USA Microfilm), the American State Papers (333.10973 U53 USA; also available online at http:// memory.loc.gov/ammem/amlaw /lwsp.html), the Territorial Papers of the United States (973.U58 USA), and the Historical Register and Dictionary of the United States Army from Its Organization, September 29, 1789, to March 2, 1903 (353.6 H473 USA)

You will have noticed by now that many government publications are available electronically as well as in print. You can access these titles either through Clayton's Internet connections or Other electronic from home. publications you might want to sample are the Library of Congress's Country Studies (http://leweb2.loc.gpv/frd/cs/cs home.html), United States Army Unit Histories (http://carlislewww.army.mil/usamhi/UnitHisto ries.html), or Library of Congress Manuscripts: An Illustrated Guide (http://www.loc.gpv/rr/mss/gui de/). Speaking of manuscripts,

You will have noticed by now that many government publications are available electronically as well as in print. You can access these titles either through Clayton's Internet connections or from home don't overlook the National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections (http://www.loc.gov/coll/nueme/)!

While this article concentrates on federal publications, remember that state governments publish, too. One of the best descriptions of federal land and the rectangular survey system is the Official Ohio Lands Book (K 68 OHIO), published by the Auditor of the State of Ohio in 2002. It is illustrated with maps and has clear explanations of the history of public land surveys. You already may be familiar with Guide to Genealogical Resources in the Texas State Archives (976.4 T355), published by the Texas State Library.

If this glimpse into government documents hasn't whetted your appetite, or even if it has, be sure to read Curt B. Witcher's excellent overview of how and why to use government documents for genealogical research.³ See also my handout and bibliography for more tips and articles about exploring and using government publications.⁴ As you cite your sources (you are doing that, aren't you?) on your next visit to Clayton, keep an eye out for government documents.

Place: Bayland Community Center 6400 Bissonnet St., Houston, TX

Speaker: Donald E. Lee Topic: Lee After Appomattox

Brief Description: This is a part of Lee's life that most people, including historians, tend to overlook. However, it is the part where he made his greatest and most lasting contributions to this country as a "healer" and as an educator.

Donald E. Lee is Past Commander of the Albert Sidney Johnston Camp No. 67, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Past Commander of the Albert Sidney Johnston Camp No. 5 of the Military Order of Stars and Bars, and immediate Past President of the Sam Houston Chapter of The Sons of the Republic of Texas. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and the General Society of 1812. An accomplished watercolor artist, he also is a member of the Houston Civic Arts Association.

A sixth generation Texan with ancestors who fought at the Alamo, Don was born in Seguin, graduated from The University of Texas, and served as a Captain in the U. S. Marine Corps during the Korean conflict After a career of over 36 years, Don retired from Exxon in 1990. He has served and is serving on numerous civic, community, and educational boards, including Houston's Theater Under the Stars, the Foundation Board of Texas Tech University, and the Museum of Southern History.

Don's four great grandfathers served in the Confederate Army. They were Lieutenant Elias M. C. Lee in the Georgia Volunteer Infantry, Private William Blanton Westbrook in the Second Texas Infantry, Private Abner Valentine Gates in the 33rd Texas Calvary, and Private Asa Huffman was also in the Texas Infantry.

Don and his wife Janice are members of the Memorial Drive Presbyterian Church and the Riverbend Country Club.

WHAT'S New?

NEW COMMITTEE WANTS YOUR INPUT

by Trevia Wooster Beverly

The new CLF Acquisitions Committee hopes to continue the fine work done in the past to obtain items used by genealogical and historical researchers who use Clayton Library. All acquisitions will be carefully choreographed to meet the overall goals and plans that the Clayton Library Manager and staff foresee. But we also want to have as much input as possible from the CLF membership.

CLF members who have given an e-mail address will soon receive a very short survey form. We hope you will take the time to read it, fill it out, and return it. In addition, we plan to implement an idea submitted by Ginny Toney (a past president) some time ago to "Adopt a County!" It seems we have many counties within various states where we have not one single item on the shelf and we hope that those particularly interested will be willing to 'adopt' it and provide one or two items for it. A list will soon be posted on the lunch room bulletin board at Clayton, but in the meantime if you have a particular state of interest e-mail us an we'll provide a list of counties that needs adopting.

As many of you know, through a gift, Clayton was able to obtain the Texas Death Certificates --- yes! the actual certificate! --- for the years available up to 1935. A top priority 'by popular demand' is to take it to the next stage for those certificates from 1935-1978. For this and other projects we encourage not only gifts-in-kind but your monetary gift as well. Given through the CLF Acquisitions Committee you can be assured that your gift will be handled quickly and appropriately.

This Committee serves at the pleasure of the Board on your behalf. Let us hear your ideas and what your needs are for materials for Clayton.

1911 CANADIAN CENSUS RECORDS ARE NOW ONLINE!!

by Fran Bumann and Wally Davenport hose of you from Clayton Library who helped the cause by signing and sending petitions last year, to the Canadian government are to be thanked for your effort in this important undertaking.

The Library and Archives of Canada has placed their 1911 census online. There is no fee for accessing this database. You can get to it by going to:

> www.collectionscanada.ca/archivianet/ 1911/index-e.html.

The 1911 census began on June 1. Recorded for each individual was the place they lived, marital status, age, place of birth, religion, occupation, and education. The census covered those areas of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories that were part of the Canadian Confederation in 1911.

The online database of the 1911 census is only searchable by geographic location — it is not searchable by family name. But it is now online!

AN INTERESTING ALASKA FACT

by Gin Toney

The nearest corollary in Alaska to the county form of government found in most other U.S. states is the borough. Alaska has 16 boroughs, which together cover less than 30 percent of the state. The remainder of the state's territory is divided into 11 census areas, which do not have organized borough governments due to sparse population. By convention, these census areas are used as borough-substitutes by both the state and federal governments for census, economic measures, and other purposes. We also use them in genealogy.
